Wellington Region Local Authorities Shared Services Initiative

1. INTRODUCTION

Purpose of document

The purpose of this charter document is to establish the strategy and basis for the shared services implementation programme, outline the manner in which this programme will be executed over time and identify the key individuals and their roles.

Vision

In response to current financial, economic, operational and capability challenges, local authorities within the greater Wellington region have agreed to work collaboratively to explore opportunities for greater sharing of services and resources under a strategic shared services programme.

The local authorities have informally agreed to work together to a point where the opportunities for introducing shared services can be well defined and the case for charge articulated to a level where benefits and impacts on each participant local authority can be readily identifiable. The subsequent participation of a local authority in any initiative will be a decision that each authority can make at certain stages of the shared services assess phase activity.

The overall outcomes and objectives sought under the shared services programme are set out below.

What are shared services?

In local government, shared services are recognised as the model whereby authorities come together to deliver part of their business – be they front-line services or corporate support functions – in a combined or collaborative operation. All of these can be termed shared services, working across the boundaries of more than one organisation, irrespective of whether the delivery model involves the public or private sectors.

Shared services are fundamentally about optimising people and their skills, assets, time and other resources. A shared service arrangement, regardless of the governance model under which it operates, can in practice handle any business function effectively, as long as there is competent management to realise the benefits from the arrangement and performance criteria that meets the needs of the 'parent' councils.

Background and business drivers

Traditionally, local authorities in the Wellington region have maintained their own corporate services. However several factors such as increasing pressures from the public for high quality service delivery and pressures on local authority expenditure have meant that councils have had to look at other ways to ensure cost savings. Change is inevitable and a new way to look at the services provided by the local authorities is an essential requirement. Shared services promotes clever ways of working, and encourages innovation within the workplace. Shared Services provide opportunities for staff to expand their skills and contribute to a highly mobile workforce.

Wellington Region Local Authorities Shared Services Initiative

Objectives

The objectives of this shared services programme are:

- To initially identify and examine opportunities for delivering services co-operatively as a means of providing enhanced services with greater economic efficiency.
- To identify to all stakeholders the issues which need to be addressed to ensure that shared and cooperatively delivered services are delivered effectively and efficiently.
- To reduce the costs of administration of the programme by providing shared project management, coordination and advisor roles
- To deliver consistent and resilient services
- To promote the development of shared services, processes and systems that are resilient to changes in service delivery structures and boundaries and better able to meet the needs of joined up public services.
- To offer staff development and opportunities
- Improve skills levels in each service

Outcomes

The outcomes of introducing shared services in the Wellington region have been identified as:

- Providing excellence in service delivery – ensuring business solutions are developed and implemented according to timeframes and budgets
- Providing consistent and potentially enhanced customer satisfaction with the services provided
- Establishing significant cost advantages to partnering councils
- Identifying and capturing economies of scale through amalgamation of service delivery or procurement.

2. APPROACH TO SHARED SERVICES

Approach to the assessment of shared services

The overall approach that has been identified as appropriate for the Wellington regional authorities needs to take into account the separate operational accountabilities of the authorities, their varying sizes and services they deliver.

A shared services methodology has been agreed and approved by the Chief Executives Forum. The shared service centre lifecycle methodology follows the following hierarchy of activities:

- Stages – a series of related work activities that define the main activities to be completed
- Phases – with each stage, there are a number of related activities that need to be accomplished
- Tasks – within each phase, there are a number of tasks that need to be accomplished to make up the phase deliverable
- Steps – within each task, a number of steps are defined which provide an outline of how to complete the task.

Stages of the methodology

The five stages of the methodology are as follows:

Stage 1: Assess. A business case supporting the establishment of the shared service activities and centre (SSC) is prepared that will establish with management the basis for the investment and feasibility.

Stage 2: Design. The scope of the services to be provided by the SSC is confirmed, SSC management and support infrastructure requirements are defined, and a conceptual model of the optimised processes to be established within the SSC is prepared.

Stage 3: Construct. The SSC operating / management team is established and the infrastructure needed to support the processes to be transferred to the SSC is built. Systems and telecommunication services are selected and implemented, interfaces are built and data prepared for migration. SSC staff are recruited and trained. Premises are located and prepared.

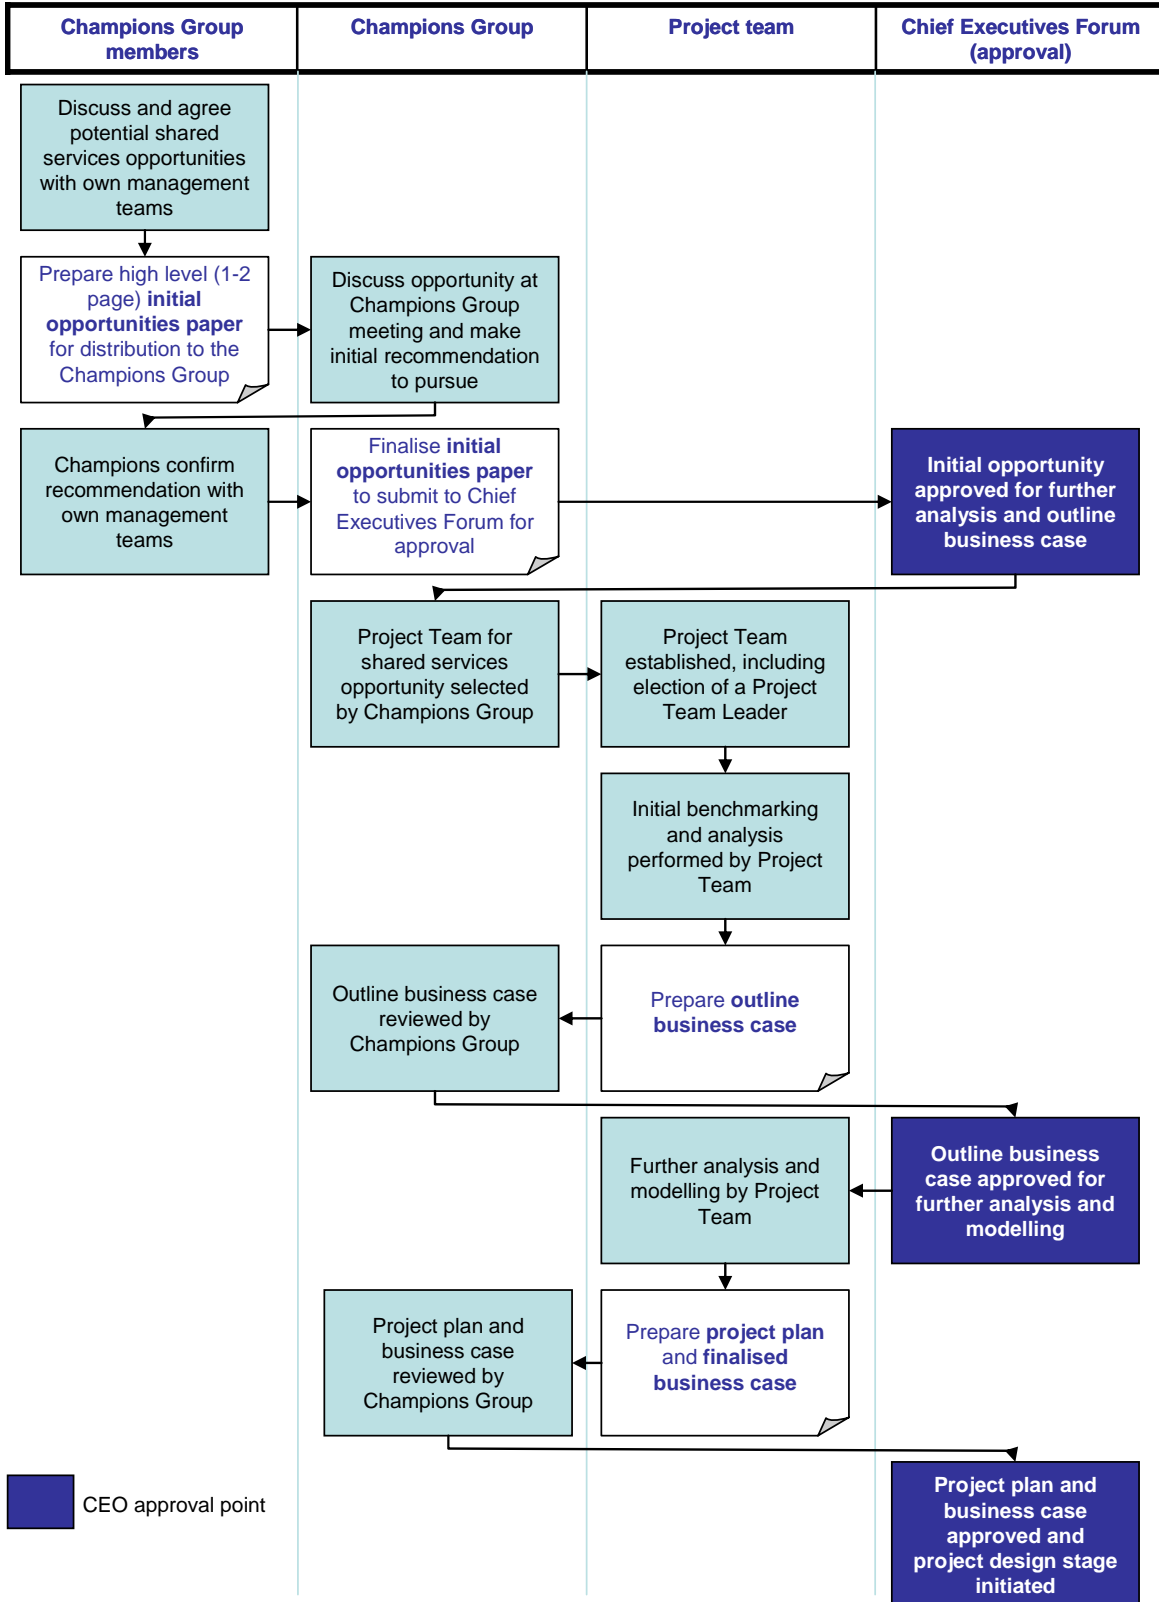

Stage 4: Implement. The processes and SSC staff are moved from their original locations to the SSC when all acceptance testing has been successfully completed and all “go live” criteria have been met.

Stage 5: Operate. As the SSC nears ‘steady state,’ SSC management responsibilities include implementing a continuous improvement program tasked with ensuring that the level of the service provided by the SSC meets or exceeds client management’s expectations.

During the assess stage, the approved methodology allows the Chief Executives Forum to receive initial options that are assessed to a level of detail in order to determine if they should be taken further to a full business case, or if an alternative approach to achieving the benefit can be achieved:

3. GOVERNANCE

Sound governance is key to a successful shared services implementation, as it not only helps to manage the strategy for implementation and ongoing issues, but also establishes accountability. The governance framework defined below describes the range of governance groups, their roles and responsibilities and their reporting relationships to ensure that appropriate mechanisms and controls are in place to effectively oversee the design and subsequent implementation of the shared services programme.

The following governance structure has been established to enable the assessment and development of options to a business case (assess phase). The operational governance of the actual service being delivered via a Shared Services initiative will be defined relative to the governance needs of the service.

5. COST SHARING

Participating local authorities need to determine at the outset how costs will be apportioned. A robust business case must be prepared for proposed shared service initiatives which sets out accurate costs and benefits and identifies the levels of efficiency savings and other benefits that the shared services initiative will deliver.

General cost sharing principles

The general principles of cost sharing are as follows:

- All participating councils will be expected to make a financial and resource contribution to each project
- Participating councils' contributions will be agreed in advance on the basis of fairness and equitability
- Once a project is underway, each participating council will be committed to delivering its agreed contribution until the next stage of the project
- Each of the eight councils is expected to participate in each project unless there is a compelling reason not to do so
- Councils wishing to join a project late will be required to make a contribution to the costs already incurred.

Mechanisms for sharing specific costs

The following table details the agreed mechanisms for sharing the cost of specific activities of the shared service programme:

Activity	Ownership	Nature of cost	Mechanism
ASSESS PHASE
Programme management	Champions Group	Employee costs (members' time)	Born by each council
		Employee costs (admin and support)	Born by Wellington CC
		External advice (shared services methodology, tools, training, etc)	Council contribution by agreement

6. CRITICAL SUCCESS FACTORS

The following summarises the critical success factors identified for the shared services programme, along with how these factors are addressed by the approved shared services approach:

Critical success factors	How the approach addresses these factors
Early engagement and communication is required across councils about the vision and the need for change. Council staff may be resistance to shared services, seeing it as a first step to amalgamation. There will be political sensitivities around this project, at both a local and national level, which will need to be carefully managed.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A key role of the Champions Group members and the Chief Executive Forum is to act as advocates for the shared services initiative • The business case includes a key stakeholder assessment and action plan to address key stakeholder management risks identified • The adoption, and consistent application, of a robust and credible shared service methodology provides transparency and accountability for decisions made
Ensuring the availability and cooperation of staff from eight councils during the information gathering and option development processes will be problematic. The project will fail without proper leadership and governance.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The governance structure agreed provides clear roles and accountabilities for mobilising the multi-authority project teams • The governance structure also provides transparent leadership through the Chief Executives Forum
The project team responsible for the preparation of the business case will need a wide range of skill sets, including a detailed understanding of the methodology, an appreciation of the service area, and strong IT, project management and business case preparation capabilities.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The project initiation document and business case templates require the Project Team to identify, in a systematic and consistent manner, the expert resources required (for approval by the Chief Executives Forum)
The outcomes and benefits (both financial and non-financial) of any shared service opportunity need to be understood and measured/monitored as the project progresses.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The business case template requires the Project Team to identify the financial and non-financial outcomes and benefits for each project, with clearly defined benefit measures, targets, deadlines and ownership
A commitment to funding the potentially high cost of implementing change will need to be agreed in advance by every authority, even though benefits may not be realised until the medium term.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The business case template requires a detailed cash flow forecast of cost and net benefits of the project, in total and for each council
The specific risks of each opportunity need to be understood and addressed to maximise the chance of success.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The business case template includes a risk assessment, with agreed management action and ownership
